

Next Generation TAI Insights – Reflections from the Client Roadshow

A key part of product development at TAI is incorporating client feedback. We recently had the opportunity to take the next generation of TAI Insights, our data analytics tool, on a roadshow to test it with clients. It was fantastic connecting in person to receive direct feedback and introduce clients to Comotion Business Solutions, our partners in developing TAI Insights.

From the experience, we gained six key takeaways on what our clients value:

Test early – Molding the solution to real-world needs by involving multiple clients from day one for input to ensure that we incorporate analytical insights that are truly useful in the real world.

Remove friction – a product that is easy to deploy, requiring minimal effort from their IT teams.

Go Deep – the ability to drill down on individual reinsurance treaties and understand metrics and performance.

Optimization – tools for applying a scientific approach to structuring their reinsurance programs.

Claims – the ability to monitor monthly cash flow identify anomalies, drill down on these individual claims, and take appropriate action.

Customization – the ability to create charts and dashboards and drill down on the underlying data.
